a platform for sleeping

Using a hybrid of translucency and solidity, a studio called Resolution 4 Architecture used sliding and fixed bevelled glass panels to surround the wooden headboard in this Tribeca loft bedroom. Light into the room is maximized and animated by the glass.

the comfort of gravity [right]

Gravity and our natural inclination to lie down are exaggerated in a New York apartment. Artworks appear to be about to drip onto the bed, which is supported by a chunky wood frame. In their comparative lightness, thin cloth curtains provide an ethereal contrast.
